AN IN-SPIRED PROJECT

The task to upgrade the church spire at All Hallows Church, Cheadle was a relatively unique project and one in which Sika-Trocal licensed contractor Sanderoof had to use a little lateral or even vertical thinking!

The main part of the brief was to re-roof the church spire in a long lasting and proven material and to match it to the existing white church cross. Sika-Trocal Type S 2mm membrane was used on the project in a specially ordered white colour along with the matching SE profile which was welded on to the membrane. The result has delighted Sanderoof, the main contractor DJ Hughes and even the congregation.

Sika-Trocal's area technical manager Shay Casey was on hand throughout the project and at its completion to issue the final guarantee. Given the relatively unique nature of the job, the Sika-Trocal disc fitting system proved to be a particular advantage on site, allowing for a speedy and effective fixing of the membrane to the plywood base.

Shay comments: "We think of roofing in the flat plane so when we were asked about the project we were delighted to provide a long lasting solution and to help support our licensed contractor, Sanderoof. Perhaps we could specialise on church roofs in the Manchester area with Sanderoof!"
