SKILLBUILD SUCCESS

Sika-Trocal recently supported the single ply roofing category in the finals of SkillBuild, Britain's biggest skills competition, held at Leeds College of Building on 1-3 October 2008. The overall event was part organised by ConstructionSkills and supported by roofing trade bodies SPRA and the NFRC.

Open to all 17-21 year olds currently training in construction through further education colleges or work based apprenticeships SkillBuild has proven to be a great success, especially for the winner of best single ply installer which was Troy Asbury from Licensed contractor Seeco.

Tim Clark, National Sales Manager of Sika-Trocal commented: "We were delighted with the opportunity to support such an important event. The construction industry prides itself on standards of workmanship and we need to ensure that tomorrow's talent reflects this proposition. Our own licensed roofing contractors show that effective training is a fundamental part of not only the flat roofing sector, but the construction industry as a whole, of which Sika is a major global player."
